

Galbraith Contends Rusk 'Misinformed' On Foreign Policy

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP) — Former Ambassador John K. Galbraith said today Secretary of State Dean Rusk was "terribly misinformed" in his estimates of support for the administration's foreign policy.

Speaking at the commencement exercises of Rhode Island College, Galbraith, now an economics professor at Harvard University, quoted Rusk as saying recently: "I have found the objectives of American foreign policy are widely understood, respected and supported."

"I quote these words very precisely," Galbraith said. "They are to be read in light of the very center of what is one of the greatest information-gathering organizations in the world. How could a man in his position be so terribly misinformed?"

Galbraith, who served as ambassador to India under the late President Kennedy, said:

No Allies Help

"The obvious truth is not a single one of our European allies has sent a solitary soldier to the support of our enterprise in Viet Nam. Sweden, a country hitherto noted for neither intelligence nor malignant anti-Americanism, has thought so little of our policy she has imposed an arms embargo — a quarantine — upon us.

"Nor are matters much better here at home. Week by week, the polls show a steady drop in the admiration of Marshal Ky and therewith in policies the secretary espouses.

"It is difficult to find anything, either abroad or at home, that remotely resembles the understanding, respect and support which the secretary perceives."

Galbraith said the problem of Viet Nam "seems to be the government has less information" than private citizens "and that is much more alarming."

College Influence

He said the State Department and the administration "discount far too heavily the reactions of a rising political force in the United States that is especially important in the field of foreign policy. That is the college and university community."

He cited predictions that by 1970 there will be nearly 500,000 college and university teachers in the nation, and by 1969, some 6.7 million students.

"No community of this size," he said, "is ever without public and political influence. Students and faculty have resources for informing themselves on foreign policy which are far superior to that available to the general public."

Traverse City Fetes Griffin

TRAVERSE CITY (AP)—The welcome planned today for Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., shaped up as a traffic jam even before his plane touched the ground here.

Private pilots were scheduled to meet Griffin's plane when it entered the Traverse City approaches. Sky divers planned to tumble out bearing signs that read: "Hi Bob."

The Junior Chamber of Commerce painted "Welcome Bob" on the airport main runway in letters 30 feet long. Coast Guard, Army reserve and Boy Scout units, former mayors and Chamber of Commerce presidents, a motorcade and flower girls lined up to greet Griffin.

Merchants and residents in the city flew flags in honor of his return in a new role.

Griffin was scheduled to address the spring meeting of the Michigan Canners and Freezers Association.

He moved to Traverse City 16 years ago from Detroit to begin a private law practice. In 1956 he was elected to Congress from the 11th District and this spring was named to the U. S. Senate vacancy caused by the death of Democrat Patrick V. McNamara. Griffin plans to seek election to the post in November.

Police Capture Flying Bandits

KETCHIKAN, Alaska (AP)—Two men who chartered a plane and flew to Sitka where they robbed a bar were caught by police in the woods 15-miles north of here Friday night.

The two were identified as Larry Cres, 26, and James Harfenson, 27, both of Everett, Wash. Police said two men held the pilot at pistol point after taking $2,500 from the Pioneer Bar.

They were charged with armed robbery and bail was set at $10,000 each.

Tired Marchers Plod Southward In Mississippi

BATESVILLE, Miss. (AP)—While a foot weary procession plods southward through Mississippi, civil rights groups from coast-to-coast today planned vocal and walking support to the cause now known as James Meredith's march against fear.

The march pace will be slowed a little through a new tactic. Instead of sticking to U. S. 51, which only brushes the outskirts of towns, the marchers will go into county seats to escort Negroes to voter registration places.

Meredith, the first Negro at the University of Mississippi, walked for two days from the Tennessee line toward Jackson, the state capital, before he was wounded by two blasts of bird-shot. Others took over where he left off and their number has varied from 125 to 600.

Meredith set out on his walk to encourage Negroes to register.

Rallies Planned

In support of the marchers, civil rights workers in Phoenix, Ariz.; Louisville, Ky.; Buffalo, N.Y.; Nashville, Tenn.; Los Angeles; Chicago; Albany, N.Y.; San Antonio, Tex.; and throughout Louisiana scheduled rallies and marches today or Sunday.

Some groups coupled the affairs with voter registration support and memorial services for Medgar Evers, state field

Conscientious Soldier Fails To Fight, Jailed

Court Martial Breaks Private Back To Recruit

CHU CHI, Viet Nam (AP)—An American serviceman who studied for the priesthood and who refused to bear arms against the Communists was sentenced today to one year in prison for refusing to obey an order.

An Army court martial also sentenced Pvt. Adam R. Weber Jr., 24, of New Orleans, to be reduced to recruit and to forfeit $15 of his $101.90 monthly pay.

Weber, speaking after the verdict was returned but before sentence was pronounced, pleaded to be allowed to remain in the Army and volunteered to serve as a frontline medic.

He was convicted of refusing to accept and sign for an M14 rifle on April 30 when being processed through the replacement company of the 25th Infantry Division.

Refuses To Kill

The maximum sentence on the charge is five years in prison and a dishonorable discharge.

Weber's defense was he had told the Army at his induction in November 1965 he would refuse to kill as a matter of principle especially in the war in Viet Nam to which he objected.

He had been arrested on the White House steps in August 1965, and fined $25 for participating in a civil rights and peace demonstration.

Weber studied four years for the priesthood at New Orleans and left the seminary for two additional years at Loyola University.

He said he did not object on religious grounds but because of his own personal philosophy arrived at through individual study. He calls himself a "humanist."

Volunteers As Medics

Weber took the stand in his own defense and said: "I don't think anyone has the right to order me to perform an inhuman act."

Prior to the trial, Weber had made various statements to the Army and some of these were introduced as evidence.

In one of them, Weber has said "I believe I am as loyal to the United States as the most loyal of its sons."

He added, however, he considered the Vietnamese war "futile and fruitless." He said his beliefs forbade his taking human life.

Calls Extra Session:

Legislature Beaten By Own Deadlines

LANSING (AP)—The Legislature lost the race with its own deadlines Friday, granting itself another two days to complete work that began five months ago.

Lawmakers, instead of being free to campaign through the Aug. 2 primary election, will return to Lansing June 21-22. Lawmakers were to have adjourned Friday. The first day will be devoted to cleaning up more than 30 Senate bills on the House calendar and two House measures facing the Senate.

Chief among the House decisions is whether to help start an osteopathic college in Pontiac.

Nearly 50 bills are in conference committees, where House-Senate differences will have to be worked out by the end of the second day.

Two budget bills went to Gov. George Romney Friday — non-controversial spending for corrections and public safety.

But the rest of the budget, topped by school aid and higher education, goes into conference.

In 11-hour debate Friday, the House refused to go along with a Senate-approved statewide moratorium on antlerless deer hunting, leaving a conference to work out agreement.

But it approved and sent to Romney a bill making Michigan the second state to regulate sale of hearing aids.

A state board could suspend or revoke dealers' licenses for false advertising, fraud or deceit.

The House refused to go along with Senate amendments permitting the Peoples Community Hospital Authority to sell its assets to a private, non-profit corporation.

Tables Water Move

Crime Cleanup

DETROIT (AP)—The city's Common Council Friday ordered eight Detroit agencies to meet with residents in a near-downtown area to crack down on prostitution and other crime and to clean alleys, offer anti-poverty services and enforce building codes.

four hospitals in Western Wayne and eastern Washtenaw counties.

Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley said turning the authority over to private ownership would endanger its bonded indebtedness and make it difficult for the 23 member cities to get back their investment.

The House tabled move to make Detroit's water rates to more than 60 communities subject to Public Service Commission approval.

The move was sponsored by Rep. Harold Clark, D-Warren, and backed by other suburban legislators.

One major pay raise—for Appeals Court judges—went to the governor. But others covering legislators, and supreme, circuit and probate court judges went into conference. Appeals judges will jump from $23,000 to $31,000.

Two property tax breaks for rural interests went to the governor. One increases the farm equipment exemption from $1,000 to $2,500 of state-equalized valuation and the other exempts growing trees and plants from the levy.

Another approved bill bars use of L-S-D, the hallucinatory drug.

Forces Regroup For New Attack On Red Position

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. paratroopers regrouped today for fresh assaults on entrenched North Vietnamese regulars who already have lost nearly 400 men in the jungled central highlands.

While ground fighting subsided to isolated skirmishes during the day, B52 bombers pounded a Communist troop area only 10 miles north of the battle area.

The B52 strikes were made before dawn to support ground units of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division which has locked with at least two battalions of North Vietnamese Army regulars since Tuesday.

The battle could have large military significance. With two and possibly four North Vietnamese battalions badly mauled, it could upset the timetable for any Communist monsoon offensive against the central highlands.

The highlands long have been a Red objective and at least six regiments of North Vietnamese were known to be poised just across the border in Laos.

Throughout the fighting of the past few days, U.S. planes flew 202 air strikes against the entrenched North Vietnamese. Some of the strikes were close to American ground forces and the spokesman said one strike today was within 50 yards of the paratroopers.

Elsewhere in South Viet Nam, only minor ground fighting was reported but the air offensive over both North and South Viet Nam continued full scale.

U. S. Air Force and Navy planes flew 72 sorties over North Viet Nam Friday, concentrating once again on the southern panhandle and coastal targets.

Over South Viet Nam, American pilots flew 345 sorties Friday in support of ground operations. The Vietnamese Air Force flew 282 similar sorties.

PRE-TRIAL and trial publicity, which was a major issue in the action taken by the Supreme Court in granting Dr. Samuel Sheppard a new trial on his second degree murder conviction, got a head start on the second trial Friday when Prosecutor John T. Corrigan, right, announced he would prosecute Sheppard again. (AP Wirephoto)

Sheppard Retrial To Be Different

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A replay of the sensational 1954 Sheppard murder trial will be conducted, probably in the fall. But there will be some basic differences in the second trial.

The decision to bring Samuel H. Sheppard to trial again was announced Friday by Cuyahoga County Prosecutor John T. Corrigan, who spent most of the week studying a Monday U.S. Supreme Court ruling.

The High Court ruled Sheppard did not receive a fair trial in 1954 when he was convicted of second degree murder and sentenced to life imprisonment in the bludgeoning death of his first wife, Marilyn.

A carnival atmosphere reigned during the trial, the Supreme Court said, and it criticized the trial judge, the late Edward T. Bryth, for what it called his failure to see Sheppard get a fair trial.

Sheppard, now 42, spent nine years in prison before his attorneys got a federal court order freeing him in July, 1964. He said he welcomed the prosecutor's decision and he was sure "I can prove my innocence."

He and his second wife, Ariane, listened to Corrigan's statement before meeting with newsmen.

The biggest difference in the new trial is this time Sheppard will not be on trial for his life.

The first time, he was tried for first degree murder, which could have meant death in the electric chair. But this time the charge will be second degree murder.

The reason, the prosecutor explained, is that in finding Sheppard guilty of second degree murder, the jury found him innocent of the more serious charge of first degree murder.

Mice Help The Buggers

Wood Tick Controls Sought

People who don't like wood ticks have been asking science to control or eradicate the pests. They've got help this summer from Michigan State University.

It has sent Arthur L. Wells, a technician in the Entomology Department of MSU's College of Agriculture, to the Upper Peninsula to make a study of wood ticks.

Wells started his work in Menominee County, where the ticks were first reported in the Upper Peninsula in the 1930s. Apparently the ticks are present in all counties of the U.P. now, says Wells, but they are most common in the western part of the Peninsula.

He will study the life history and biology of the ticks, when they are most active, and the reasons for the "hot spots" where ticks team, and other spots nearby where they're not found.

Tourism Problem
"We're becoming more concerned about them," said Wells "because tourists move about so much and they run their dogs and the dogs can carry them. At a highway park beyond Highland Golf Club I found over a hundred in one little stone pile."

"The ticks are true parasites — related to spiders and mites and not insects — and they must feed on blood to mature and lay eggs. It needn't be human blood. The main hosts are Dog Tick."

"There are lots of ticks — rabbit ticks (common on hares) ears at this time) the winter tick on deer, certain species on bats, etc — but we're mainly concerned with the American Tick."

Thousands Of Eggs
"This is the common 'wood tick' of Upper Michigan. The females gorge on blood until they get full and they mate on the host with the male and the female drops off to the ground and starts, within a week or so, to lay eggs. She may lay 4,000 or 5,000 and the eggs will hatch and the young seed ticks in larval stage have three pairs of legs. (The adult ticks have four pairs.)"

"The larvae crawl up on grass blades and wait for a field mouse or deer mouse and catch onto the mouse and fill with blood and then they drop off to the ground and moult into a nymphal stage and they have four pairs of legs. They crawl up on a blade of grass and catch another mouse host and engorge on blood like the larvae did."

Between Drinks
"They drop off and moult into the adult stage. The ticks that are active now were in the nymphal stage last year. When the weather warms to about 60 degrees they come out of hibernation and become active. We don't know where they go in winter."

"They're persistent cusses. They have been known to live for three years in laboratory studies without any blood and that's their only food!"

The whole cycle to adulthood can take place in one summer, but studies in New England with marked ticks indicate that there is not a heavy survival of ticks over the winter because so few marked ticks are found in the spring.

Can Carry Fever
Until 1931 it was not believed that the American Dog Tick would transmit the Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever — a disease that is often fatal, a scourge of the West — but there have been more cases in the eastern United States known to have been borne by the American Dog Tick than there have been in the West from the Rocky Mountain Tick. (It is also called the Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever Tick.)

The Michigan Department of Health reported 5 cases in the state up to 1965 and listed two cases last summer at Niles. They were traced to American Dog Ticks. Neither of the Niles cases resulted in fatalities.

As Wells collects Michigan ticks he sends them to the Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever Laboratory at Hamilton, Montana and it examines the ticks to see if they are the causative organism of the disease. In all the ticks he sent last year — about 100 — there were no positive results.

How They Enter
He has sent hundreds of ticks from Menominee County to the lab this year.

Even where ticks bear the organism, not all the ticks bear it and people do not average let ticks on them long enough to engorge and transmit it averagely.

The ticks anesthetize the area where they engorge. The head has a pair of palpi which open to expose a blunt tongue-like hypostome which enters the host's flesh. It has little teeth on all sides, so it's almost impossible to pull the tick out without pulling a little flesh with it. The teeth act like fish-hooks.

On each side of the hypostome is a chelicerae, or little knife, which cuts open the way for the hypostome.

Some woodsmen say that the tick must be "unscrewed" to remove it from the flesh, but taint so. They're not auger-shaped. And it's no help in getting one out by putting a hot needle to its rump, either, says Wells. "Who wants to back into a fire?" he asks.

Travel Toward Roads
If the tick has entered the flesh enough to start to engorge blood Wells recommends seeing a doctor to have him remove it.

Ticks are attracted to dogs — coyotes, foxes, all members of the dog family. They will seek them out, always go toward a road and never away from it. They've been known to travel 200 or 300 feet to a roadside or game trail where hosts pass.

Wells believes that some birds eat ticks, but this isn't known for sure. They've been reported on many animals, including porcupines.

To fight ticks, says Wells, keep ticks off dogs and treat dogs to prevent their hosting ticks by DDT dusting, etc. Delta County Extension director Joseph L. Heirman has a pamphlet for free distribution telling about tick control.

Wells advises reducing mice and keeping brush and grass near homes cut to combat ticks.

changed, however, and residential builders are as much concerned as before of the harmful effect the application of the law will have on the home builders, modernization and alterations contractors.

Indignation meetings brought a delay in the imposition of the law, now the builders are hopeful of having the Legislature wipe it off the books.

A 'Bad Law'
Some Republican legislators have called the act "a very bad law, indeed" and State Senator Schweigert sponsored the bill that won a delay in the effective date of the law to Sept. 1.

The licensing of all home building contractors and the requirement of posting a bond up to $10,000, which is part of the new law, would drive the smaller contractors out of business, according to the opponents of the measure.

The bond for a maintenance or alteration contractor is $2,000 for each trade or craft. Penalties for violation of provision of the act are $500 or six months imprisonment or both.

Each applicant must furnish a credit report, a financial statement, and a set of fingerprints.

HOW WE STARTED TO BECOME AN INDUSTRIAL POWER

A young man just one year out of college, invented a machine in 1793 that changed America. Before 1793, there was hardly any industry here. But in that year, young Eli Whitney invented the cotton gin, which separated cotton fibres from the seed. This invention set in motion the forces that made America an industrial power.

Because cotton could now be processed quicker, factories sprung up to manufacture goods from that cotton, and the industrial revolution was on.

Whitney thus takes his place as one of the first of that amazing group of American inventors who have done so much to make us the strong nation we are today. He and the other great inventors who followed have flourished here because our free enterprise system rewards individual initiative, thereby encouraging men to unprecedented achievement for themselves — and our country.

Rice, Cohodas Honored By Tech

HOUGHTON — Michigan Tech today honored two of its staunchest friends — one posthumously — in ceremonies at its 79th June commencement.

Recipients of the newly-created Distinguished Service Awards were the late John W. Rice, editor and publisher of the Houghton Daily Mining Gazette, and Harry R. Cohodas, vice president and treasurer of Cohodas-Pauli Co., Inc. The Rice Award was accepted by Mrs. John W. Rice.

The awards are silver medallions in the form of the official Michigan Tech seal.

Dr. R. L. Smith, president of the university made the presentations. Dr. Smith said John Rice "helped spread Michigan Tech's name to the world. He had a lifelong interest in Tech athletics, and in students as well. Many students have benefited from his generosity without knowing the identity of their benefactor. During his lifetime he used his influence time and again to help the University secure adequate financing."

Cohodas, Dr. Smith said, "has made many gifts to the University, but has modestly asked for anonymity; only the Harry and Eva Cohodas scholarships for freshmen students carry his name." Dr. Smith said. On at least one occasion, when badly needed funds were not available from the State, Mr. Cohodas advanced a large sum to the University with no interest charge, and waited several months until the State could repay him."

Spivak To Watch Railroad Merger

LANSING (AP) — The State Public Service Commission reported Friday it will keep a sharp eye on the proposed merger of the Chicago and North-western Railway Co. and the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad Co.

Peter Spivak, commission chairman, said he wants to make sure the interests of Upper Peninsula railroad customers are protected.

Spivak has asked Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley for leave to intervene in the case, to be heard before the Interstate Commerce Commission. An adie said Kelley's approval would be automatic. No hearing date has been set.

"I have no way of knowing if it will be necessary for the commission to take an active speed up."

part in this hearing," Spivak said.

"However, both railroads serve Michigan's Upper Peninsula and it is our responsibility to represent the people of Michigan who live and work in the service areas of these two railroads."

The Chicago and Northwestern has 467 miles of main track in Menominee, Delta, Dickinson, Marquette, Iron and Gogebic counties. The Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific has 183 miles of main track in Dickinson, Iron, Baraga, Houghton, Ontonagon and Marquette counties.

"Highball" originally meant a ball raised as a signal for railroad trains to go ahead or speed up.

Wouldn't it be better to select your family burial lot when you can plan your finances for this necessity instead of having it be another financial burden among many at the time of death.

Plunging Into Medicare

An inquiry into preparations for Medicare which starts July 1 indicates that the Social Security offices are processing it efficiently after a long struggle that saw it enacted in Congress.

The result of our inquiries into preparations for Medicare in the Upper Peninsula are a bit frightening and we seem to see the same general situation throughout the country. Congress has bravely ordained that the persons in this country over 65 are going to get "free" hospital service after July 1, with some sizeable deductions.

But Congress hasn't done much about preparing for this added burden of service in the hospital, medical and nursing professions. It has some long range programs going to produce more doctors and to help the hospitals, but this Medicare thing was rushed on in a hurry, once it was enacted, to get maximum political benefit for its sponsors. The way we see it, they're apt to get a political bloody nose from it.

The thing is noble in concept. There is no question anywhere about the need for something like Medicare to care for the health needs of the elderly who can't care for themselves. But Congress has made a big fat promise to the American people and when they start collecting it after July 1 there'll have to be a period of education and adjustment that can be vastly disillusioning.

Congress has ordered hospital and medical services for the elderly (the latter they'll have to pay for at the rate of $3 a month, and it is subject to deductions like the hospital insurance) without increasing the means of providing them. And our present medical, hospital and nursing services in the Upper Peninsula rather fully use the present services without this extra burden.

At the present time the cost of health services is a means of reducing the demand for them. This will end for the elderly, in large part, on July 1, with the beginning of Medicare. They can ask for a lot of service as their right under Medicare. But can they get it? There won't be any more hospital beds, any more doctors, any more nurses than before Medicare.

There is a great uncertainty in the medical services as to just what the increased load will be. There has been some "saying up" of needs until Medicare would pay for them. There will be some family unloading of grandma on Medicare. There is expected to be more demand for service than the available amount of service.

The health services will do as much as they can to cope with it. They will care for the most urgent needs in situations where they cannot care for all the requests. They will give priorities. They will say: The line forms to the right on Wednesday afternoons. They are creating auditing committees to check on the eligibility of the elderly for service, and on conformity to schedules for diagnosis and treatment, etc.

The medical profession gets the impression from its patient calls to date that the situation is not well understood by the elderly yet and that the elderly think that Congress has ordered more for them than they are going to be able to get. In the difficult period of introduction and first development a public attitude of forbearance will be helpful.

It should remind the public that the execution of a political promise is much more difficult than voting. People who think that we blundered into war in Viet Nam would be dismayed to learn the state of ignorance about what Medicare is going to mean on July 1.

Reds' Hymns Of Hate

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Pham Duy, who once sang for Ho Chi Minh's armies, says the Viet Cong have singing teams in every Viet Nam district to work on the emotions of the people.

"Songs work," says Pham Duy. "They worked against the French." (In 1949 and '50, Pham Duy moved into hamlets ahead of Ho's troops to whip up the farmers against the French colonialists.)

"They work up people now. The Viet Cong sing of class hatred, of struggle against landlords and other men. They sing of what Ho and the Communist party will do for the people."

"But after 20 years the people have become tired. They're weary of hate and class struggle, of Ho's cadres and party promises."

"By now in the Viet Cong hamlets there should be much disillusionment. Why that is so will become clear when I tell you why I left Ho's forces 16 years ago."

"The Communists told me that men are equal. But the party member turned out to be above everybody. He got special privileges, more food and better dress."

"When we were working as artists, they put men above us of no ability just because they were party members."

"The Communists continually spied on me and everyone. We were always under surveillance. We were forced to constant self-criticism."

"We were always being pushed to do more. The pressure never stopped. But a man doesn't want to be a hero all the time."

"So the door is open," says Pham Duy. "We must send singing teams to every hamlet."

"Our songs must be different. Where the Viet Cong dance with go-go girls are singing of love."

"Our songs should say the enemy is not the landlord or by too much hating around?"

other men or even foreigners; the enemy is jealousy, cupid, ignorance, 'isms', greed, lack of freedom, schisms, class hatred.

"We must sing of man's need to change himself, of his right to rule himself and to decide what his own better life will be."

"These songs should say: 'Like this I'm born to be, to be, to be.'"

"If you love me, let me live free."

Such songs, said Pham Duy, would fall on fertile ground.

"The villagers are sick of propaganda. They don't believe any kind—the Viet Cong propaganda or ours."

"If we want to win the villagers we must help them build a new concept of a man. We must create a dream they can believe."

"We must build hope, or they will follow whomever is on the spot because they're weary and without leaders."

Pham Duy says "send our singers to Viet Cong hamlets and fewer bombers. Bombs may be necessary. But you can't kill the Communist party with bombs."

"You can kill the party by giving the people a new ideal."

Hot Outlook For 20 Years

More White Collars Seen

A preview into Michigan manpower in the 1980's is provided by the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

The study was prepared by the Battelle Institute of Columbus, O., with collaboration of the MESCC. Michigan is the first state in the nation to analyze employment by both occupation and industry.

There will be some changes made in the manpower picture from 1960 to 1980, says Malcolm R. Lovell, Jr., director of the MESCC.

Changes between 1960 and 1980 will include:

Population will be increased by over 2.4 million to 10.2 million.

Employment will be up by about 1.2 million.

Unemployment will be 170,000 or 4.3 per cent of the labor force, lower than it has been, but higher than it is now.

Agricultural workers, declining for years, will drop from 93,700 to 55,000.

Professions Grow

Professional workers will increase by 4 per cent per annum, from 312,000 to 385,000, leading the trend toward a new day for the white collar workers.

Service workers, on the upturn for the past few years, will increase from 236,000 to 437,000, at the rate of 3.1 per cent per annum, next to professional workers in the rate of increase.

Construction will increase from 126,000 to 181,000 at the rate of 1.8 per cent increase.

Finance, insurance and real estate will up by a 3.2 per cent rate from 90,000 to 168,000.

Retail trade will be increased from 403,000 to 586,000 at 1.9 per cent increment, per annum, and wholesale trade from 81,000 to 124,000 or 2.2 per cent.

Mining, long on the way down, will continue to decrease at 1.6 per cent from 15,300 in 1960 to 11,000 in 1980.

Manufacturing, long the king pin of employment, and in 1960 at 1,035,000 (and at 1,114,300 in April of 1966) will rise at a 0.5 per cent rate of increase to 1,150,000 in 1980. This will be a reduction from 38 per cent of the total employment to 29 per cent by 1980, because of increases in other areas.

Entertainment Up

Although all services are increasing substantially, the category of entertaining and recreational services, through small to start with, will rate a 3.1 annual increment, from 17,700 to 32,000, nearly double.

In line with the 4.1 increase in professional employment, professional and related services will top all industrial increases by zooming up at a 5 per cent rate, from 330,000 to 872,000, at a 3.2 per cent annual increment.

What Your Children Are Depends On You

Dear Ann Landers: May I be you for just a few minutes? I have something to say to the parents of America and there is no better vehicle than your column.

Parents: Do you want your child to be tense, insecure, unable to make friends, defeated before he starts? Do you want him to be lonely and resentful and keep his feelings buried inside? If you do, follow these suggestions:

Criticize him several times every day—preferably before an audience. Belittle his efforts, tell him to shut up when he tries to speak, shrug off his comments as dumb and unimportant. Make fun of him for asking stupid questions.

If there is an older brother or sister who is exceptionally bright or talented, make frequent comparisons and ask him why he can't do as well. If there happens to be a prettier girl or a handsomer boy in the family, make a big fuss over his or her looks.

On the other hand, if you want your child to have self-confidence and enthusiasm, initiative and leadership qualities—if you want him to be co-operative and friendly, praise him a little every day. But be sure the praise is sincere because he will know if it isn't.

Listen to him when he speaks. If he does something wrong let him know you forgive him and that you know next time he will do better. He will try his damndest not to let you down if he feels you have faith in him.

Have you ever wondered why your child behaves differently with others than he does with you? How many times have you heard a parent say, "He is so pleasant when he is with the Joneses, but at home we can't get a civil word out of him."

Children react to the way they are treated. What your children are depends on what you are willing to invest in terms of patience, time and love.—INDIANAPOLIS

Finding The Way

New Highways To Explore

By RALPH W. LOEW, D. D.

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

An ancient map of the city in which I live labels a street as "Boundary Street." The interesting fact is that that street is now almost in the inner city. If you want to find your way around Buffalo, you'd better have a more recent map.

In the Library of Congress an old Lewis and Clark map labels the section we now call Ohio as "coales and ores." On my map this place is the residence of my friends and family. The old map was accurate, but now there are new circumstances to interpret the map.

One can understand the weariness of Mr. Hammond of the New York map company when he complains that maps are out-of-date before they've been printed. It is even necessary to print two maps with different boundaries so that the disputants, Argentina and Chile, can each have a map which pleases their ideas of their boundaries.

Our problem is not only in these road maps. Our difficulty is that we confront a new world with new problems and we've tried to use some of the old signs.

We need to keep our road maps up-to-date.

Once upon a time the map read, "An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth." That was an old-fashioned "Boundary Street." Jesus changed that understanding of moral geography with a new interpretation of moral law.

Once upon a time the hymnals read:

"The rich man in his castle, The poor man at the gate, God made them high and lowly."

Each one in his estate."

Don't try singing it in any number of today's rebellious countries, for no one section is isolated so that the rich can be certain to remain rich.

Or, think of the people who are trying to use a map labeled, "status quo." To ally ourselves with such maps is to miss the high adventure of discovering new truths about the moral universe in which we live.

The world needs the rebel who is appreciative of his rebel, dman past, unwilling to tear up the old maps, but just as discontented with those twisting and turning paths which avoid coming to grips with life's problems.

The true rebel is the man who is so discontented with the pious do-nothings that he is willing to search out the new road without forsaking the old heritage.

No one can adequately measure the journey ahead for humanity. A man's a fool if he thinks he can plot his maps that easily. Great highways were carved through the wilderness and these maps are ours.

Now we have some new roads to travel. Are your maps up-to-date?

School Bonds Sale Planned

The opening of bids for the sale of $1,450,000 Escanaba Area Public School bonds will be among actions by the Board of Education when it meets in regular session at 8 p.m. Tuesday, June 14, in the Administration Building.

Atty. Robert Thrun of the legal firm retained by the school district for the bond sale will be in Escanaba to supervise the opening of the bids and the awarding, said Luther M. Barrett, school superintendent.

The bonds are to finance a school building program that will include three new structures and additions to other schools.

One of the sites is for a South Side elementary school building on 18th Ave. S. and in exchange to the City of Escanaba for this area the School District is being asked to enter into an agreement for a joint development of the grounds for recreation. The city has already budgeted for playground slides, swings and other equipment and a softball diamond.

By agreement with recreation officials approval is also being asked of the School Board to permit the city to install basketball backboards at the Webster School grounds.

The providing of a bus for the Ford River summer recreation program and other business is also scheduled to come before the Board.

Sawmill Clinic Stages Drama

Short Log Called Villain

By JEAN WORTH

The Upper Peninsula is in the process of relearning an old trade.

A sawmill clinic at Cunard, near Hermansville, on Friday drew 56 sawmill operators from the Upper Peninsula and Wisconsin and other persons associated with lumbering.

The accent in the activities, which were sponsored by Michigan State University's Extension Service, was on getting the most value out of northern sawlogs.

This might seem like a simple thing, but the all-day program revealed that U.P. millmen and loggers have certain habits which work against their pocketbooks.

Their effort to get most money out of their logs, for instance, has created what Al Boelter, Michigan Conservation Department, Lansing, described as an "eight foot obsession." This means the cutting of short logs in the hope that the best of them can be sold for veneer logs, which bring the highest price.

Veneer Market

Veneer logs are cut in this short length because it suits the handling of this sort of material while sawlogs are usually longer.

The cutting of sawlogs is usually in multiples of two feet—10, 12, 14 and 16 feet—but there is no insistence of the trade or grade rules upon these lengths and Boelter cited that loggers' failure to cut an 11-foot log, or a 13 or 15 foot hardwood log results in the waste of a large amount of timber, which is left in the woods.

No one spoke against the production of as many veneer logs as possible, because of the need to get highest grade (and price) possible to make logging and sawmilling profitable, but Boelter said that Forest Products Laboratory studies showed that some mills could justify cutting veneer logs into lumber. They brought as much or more money that way.

Supervision Needed
"Perhaps those who advocate sorting out veneer logs and those who advise sawing them are both correct," said Boelter "each in his own situation. What is practical for an operator could be improper for his neighbor."

"But business has too much money invested in each log to do anything but get the most possible value out of it."

Cutting logs for maximum high grade lumber is best done under supervision of experts, he said. This is practically difficult, but both Boelter and Jim Johnson, Michigan Tech research forester, told of the increased value of logs cut for grade under supervision. It averages $15 increase per thousand board feet over logs cut without supervision.

Boelter said that some defective logs simply cost too much to put through the mill and cannot be sawed profitably.

THREE LUMBER GRADERS were "stars" of a sawmill clinic program at Johnson Lumber Co. mill, Cunard, Friday. From left, Richard Krawze, Connor Lumber & Land Co., Laona, Wis.; E. G. "Gene" Seiler of Hancock, Van Keulen & Winchester Lumber Co., Grand Rapids; and Robert Luger, Abbott Fox Lumber Co., Trout Creek, tell part of the clinic gathering how grade controls lumber value. They inspected a pile, piece by piece, showed how sawing some boards into two boards could have increased their value by 50 per cent or more by upgrading the best portions. (Daily Press Photos by Bernard Schultz)

Henry A. Huber of MSU's Forest Products Department, Lansing, urged the mill operators to make a systems analysis of their operations. It can be done quite simply, he said. It consists essentially of determining whether their debarker can supply enough logs for the saw, whether the edger, cutoff, chipper, resaw and other machines can keep up with the saw. Where there's a weak spot shown by the analysis, it is corrected to make mill operation more efficient and profitable.

Brothers Lester Johnson and Roy Johnson, partners in the Johnson Lumber Co., were hosts to the meeting and it started with a tour of their sawmill plant at Cunard.

Lester Johnson advised millmen to buy logs of sufficient diameter and length and proper grade to permit profits. "Limit the defects by buying No. 2 or better and stay away from No. 3," he counseled. "With No. 3 logs the yield of quality lumber is low."

"We get only $50 or $60 a thousand feet for No. 3 and the cost of sawing it is just as great as for No. 1 and better, which brings $150 a thousand. No. 3 goes to such uses as pallets and much more of the log goes into the pulp chipper," Johnson said he thought there would be less saw timber in the future in the U.P. than there is now, because while there are more trees per acre than there were 30 years ago in U.P. woodlands, much of it is not going to grow to saw-timber size. Much of it is going into pulping in pole size.

The Johnson mill has been cutting for 20 years on salvage logs from the large forest holdings of U.S. Steel Corp. in northern Menominee County, but this project is ending within a year, with selective cutting expected to follow.

Some of the millmen at the clinic thought that the future of sawtimber in the U.P. rests on the state and federal forests, that nowhere else will there be an inclination to pay taxes for most of a century while waiting for trees to grow to sawlog size.

MSU Extension Agent Gail Bowers of Menominee conducted a sawmill tour, Roy Skog, Marquette, MSU Extension forester, conducted the afternoon program and Ray Gummerson, MSU natural resource agent, was moderator of the grading discussion.

Ryun Breaks World Mark In Half-Mile

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP)—Sensational Jim Ryun, new claimant to a world half-mile record, and the crusading Amateur Athletic Union were both somewhat on the spot today as the U.S. Track and Field Federation's fourth national meet reached a hectic close.

What could Ryun, 19-year-old Kansas University freshman, do for an encore in his mile specialty today after streaking the half mile Friday in 1:44.9 to shatter Peter Snell's world mark of 1:45.1?

And what could the AAU do for an encore after its ignored ultimatum Thursday that athletes competing in this federation meet will be barred from the National AAU meet at New York two weeks hence?

The AAU's unheeded mandate ostensibly means that Ryun, now the world's greatest half mile and the world's second best mile, is barred from the AAU meet and a possible berth on the U.S. team which meets the Russians in Los Angeles July 23-24.

The same thing applies to Arizona's ace javelin thrower John Tushaus, who cracked the federation record Friday with a toss of 272-1/2 without even knowing about the AAU reprisal threat.

Only last Saturday at Los Angeles, Ryun ran the mile in 1:53.7, only one-tenth of a second slower than France's Michel Jazy's world record of 1:53.6.

"I wasn't shooting for the half-mile record, especially after my slow 33.3 first quarter," said Ryun. "I had planned to move out on the back stretch of the last quarter, but I never thought I could run away from the field in this event."

In smashing Snell's record of 1:45.1 set Feb. 3, 1962, at Christchurch, New Zealand, Ryun raced over the closing quarter mile in 51.6 to finish 20 yards in front.

Lee May Could Earn Trip Back

By The Associated Press

If Lee May keeps it up with the hot bat he's been wielding of late before long he'll be right back where he started the season — in Cincinnati, playing with the Reds.

Friday night, the Buffalo cleanup man was in top form, spraying out five hits in as many times at bat — two of them triples — in leading the Bisons to their third straight victory, a 12-9 decision over faltering Jacksonville.

May upped his average to .317 and added two more runs batted in to his steadily mounting total. He now boasts 33 in the 32 games he's played since being sent down from Cincinnati May 11.

The two clubs belted a total of eight home runs in the 25-hit slugfest, with Lou Kirschbeck getting two of the homers and four of the hits for the Suns.

Elsewhere, Rochester went 10 innings to defeat Toledo 5-4 to salvage a split of their twin bill as the visiting Mud Hens rapped out 14 hits in winning the opener 7-4. Toledo's first three men in the lineup, Mike Hegon, Bob Murren and Elvio Juenez, accounted for nine of the hits.

The Red Wings held a 4-2 lead going into the ninth of the nightcap but lost it when the Mud Hens came back to tie on two doubles and a single.

The Wings won it in overtime on a walk, a wild pitch, Dave May's single and Steve Demeter's slow hopper to second.

At Syracuse, Columbus strengthened its grip on first place as Luke Walker limited the chiefs to four hits in winning a 4-1 decision. A three-run homer by Dave Roberts in the fifth was the clinching blow for the Jets, now 2 1/2 games ahead of second place Toledo.

Toronto's scheduled appearance at Richmond was rained out.

Siebert Pitches First No-Hitter

By The Associated Press

Carol Siebert was the first to know that her husband was going to pitch the first no-hitter in the majors this season.

He told her so before the game.

Then Sonny Siebert went out and did it, coming within two baserunners of a perfect game as Cleveland defeated the Washington Senators 2-0 Friday night.

After hurling the Indians' first no-hitter since 1951, Siebert explained that before he left for the ballpark his wife was kidding him about his less-than-outstanding pitching this season.

"I told her, 'If you don't get off my back, I'll go out and pitch a no-hitter,'" Siebert related.

Jim Magnuson of Marinette, classy pitcher for Peshtigo in the Wisconsin division of the Wishigan baseball league, was tapped by the Chicago White Sox in the recent major league free agent draft . . . Chicago 6-2 and Kansas City edged California 3-2.

In the National League, Los Angeles whipped San Francisco 6-1. Atlanta crushed Pittsburgh 8-2. St. Louis edged Philadelphia 5-4. New York beat Cincinnati 5-0 and Houston nipped Chicago 1-0 in 10 innings.

Baltimore's Wally Bunker had a no-hitter for six innings, but Boston's Jim Gosger led off the seventh by beating out a drag bunt for a single. Bunker wound up with a four-hitter and also drove in two runs with a double.

Andy Etchebarren and Russ Snyder added two RBI each for the Orioles.

Jake Wood and Norm Cash hit successive homers in the first inning triggering Detroit to its sixth straight victory. Hank Aguirre scattered eight hits, two of them New York homers by Clete Boyer and Joe Pepitone, in posting his first complete game of the season.

Dave Boswell pitched a four-hitter and stroked two singles as Minnesota coasted past Chicago. Boswell singled across a run and scored another in the Twins' four-run second inning, then scored again in the sixth.

Phil Roof rapped a two-run single in the fourth inning, breaking a 1-1 tie and sending California's Dean Chance to his sixth straight defeat and eighth in 11 decisions. Three Kansas City pitchers held the Angels to four hits, three by Jose Cardenal.

DETROIT (AP)—Slender Hank Aguirre soaked his blistered pitching finger in a cup of ice Friday night and wondered aloud why he was so kind to Clete Boyer of the New York Yankees.

The Detroit Tigers left-hander had just tamed the Yankees 6-2 in the opener of a four game series, surviving a wobbly ninth inning to do it.

Boyer was his biggest problem of the night as the light-hitting Yankee shortstop collected four hits — his fourth homer of the year, a triple and two doubles.

"Imagine that guy . . . he comes to town a .177 hitter and then runs his average to about .200 at my expense," said Aguirre in the Tiger dressing room.

Aguirre, who had not pitched a complete game since Sept. 28, had a 6-1 lead on a five-hitter through eight innings with Boyer's second inning home run the only tally.

His luck nearly ran out in the ninth, however, as the Yankees bounced back. Joe Pepitone led off the inning with home run No. 7. Aguirre got two quick outs but Boyer and pinchhitter Lou Clinton singled to keep the rally alive.

Aguirre fell behind Mike Tresh on a three ball, no strike count but the Yankee third baseman flied out to end the ball game.

Yankee starter Jim Bouton (1-1), who took the loss, gave up home runs by Jake Wood and Norm Cash to get the Tigers off and running in a hurry in the first inning.

Bouton was down 3-1 when he was lifted for a pinchhitter in the fourth. The Tigers greeted his successor, Bob Friend, with three big runs in the fifth to sew up the game.

Wood doubled to start that rally with Al Kaline singling him to third. Bill Freehan singled, scoring Wood and Gates Brown tripled, scoring Kaline and Freehan.

Tiger manager Bob Swift said Aguirre came within one pitch of being lifted in the ninth.

"I went out and told him he was working too fast," Swift said. "He slowed down then and got Tresh for that big out."

Joe Sparma (2-3) who never has lost to the Yankees — 5-0 lifetime against them — got the call in the second game today with Fritz Peterson (4-4) slated to pitch for New York.

DETROIT (AP)—Slender Hank Aguirre soaked his blistered pitching finger in a cup of ice Friday night and wondered aloud why he was so kind to Clete Boyer of the New York Yankees.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP)—Sensational Jim Ryun, new claimant to a world half-mile record, and the crusading Amateur Athletic Union were both somewhat on the spot today as the U.S. Track and Field Federation's fourth national meet reached a hectic close.

What could Ryun, 19-year-old Kansas University freshman, do for an encore in his mile specialty today after streaking the half mile Friday in 1:44.9 to shatter Peter Snell's world mark of 1:45.1?

And what could the AAU do for an encore after its ignored ultimatum Thursday that athletes competing in this federation meet will be barred from

Billy Jean Holds Key To U.S. Tennis Hopes

WIMBLEDON (AP) — Mary Ann Eisel, 19 and seasoned tennis campaigner Billie Jean Moffit King held the keys today to the United States' shaky chances of retaining the Wightman Cup.

The Americans went into the second half of the competition trailing Britain by two matches to one. They had to win three of the four matches scheduled today to retain the trophy.

Critics saw the cup hanging on two singles duels.

Bright-eyed, little Miss Eisel of St. Louis, faced Scotland's teen-ager Winnie Shaw for the third time in three weeks. Miss Shaw had beaten her on the two previous occasions.

Mrs. King, the main hope of the U.S. team had to play Mrs. Ann Haydon Jones, the British left-hander who won the Italian and French titles this season.

Both looked like tough assignments for the Americans. If both failed, the cup was back in Britain.

Miss Eisel hoped her match with Miss Shaw would be a case of third time lucky.

DETROIT (AP) — Hank Aguirre, who draws cheers when he even fouls a pitch off, was still looking for his first hit of the year after going hitless in three tries. He struck out on all three attempts and ran his batting average of 0 for 10. He did get a walk.

Al Kaline figured in the closest play of the night. He raced home from second on Bill Freehan's single to short right in the fifth. The throw from right fielder Roger Maris appeared to have him beaten but Kaline and Catcher Elston Howard went down in a tangle with the ball eluding Howard's grasp.

Infielder Jake Wood making only his sixth start of the season bolstered his bid for more work by banging out his first home run and a double as he filled in for injured second baseman Jerry Lampe.

Tiger pitchers Dave Wickesham and Orlando Pena, both formerly with the Kansas City Athletics, differed on who got the best of the Yankees' trade Friday. Pena figured the Yankees came out ahead as he reasoned "pitcher Fred Talbot always has been good for six or seven innings and he has the Yankee bullpen to back him up now." Wickesham figured the A's had done themselves a lot of good by grabbing outfielder Roger Repoz in the trade.

Bero Motors climbed over the 500 mark in American League softball action at Memorial Field Friday night with a 15-3 decision over LaFave's Steel.

Dale Bittner flipped a five-hitter for Bero's and contributed a pair of hits along with Bill Menard and Larry Bero.

LaFave mound duties were shared by Jug and Jim Boredeau. Dick Boredeau had two hits for the losers.

Cite Dangers To Home Rule

The continuing interference with the principles of municipal home rule by actions of the State Legislature was one of the major topics of discussion at the Upper Peninsula meeting of the Michigan Municipal League in Menominee Thursday.

Among the speakers on the topic of "Keeping Local Government Local" was George E. Bean, Grand Rapids, former city manager for the City of Escanaba. He is now employed with an engineering consulting firm.

Bean directed attention to legislation which places additional financial burdens on municipalities by the regulation of hours and wages for specific groups of employees, without providing state assistance in meeting the increasing cost of operation.

More than 3,000 bills have moved through the legislative program at Lansing and of this number about 800 to 900 had some effect on local government, it was pointed out.

Fred Kellow, chief, environmental health planning unit of the Michigan Department of Health, reported to the group on new regulations governing disposal of garbage by cities and townships.

Richard Walker, executive director, Michigan Good Roads Federation, directed attention to Michigan's need for additional highway revenues to finance need road and street improvements.

An optimistic report on the economic outlook of the Upper Peninsula was presented by Bernard M. Conboy, director of the Office of Economic Expansion, Michigan Department of Commerce.

Officers of the U.P. Municipal League group were elected. Emil Aho, Ishpeming councilman, is chairman; Clifford Johnson, Kingsford councilman, is vice chairman; and Sam Gesko, Manistique city manager, is secretary.

Attending the meeting from Escanaba on Thursday were Mayor Harold Vanierberghe, who was one of the program speakers on Thursday morning; Councilman Cecil Chase and City Manager George Harvey.

Sault Ste. Marie invited the League to hold its next convention there. The choice of place and date will be announced by the officers.

Sponsor of the project is the Northern Michigan Community Action Program. NORCAP Executive Director Charles R. Owens will be local coordinator.

Half the participants will be high school dropouts, and half will be high school graduates. All the youngsters will come from low-income families.

Youth Corps workers will receive 26 weeks of training, with pay, as clerical aides and community aides, food service, library, recreation, and repairs to athletic equipment, school maintenance and teachers aides.

NEW

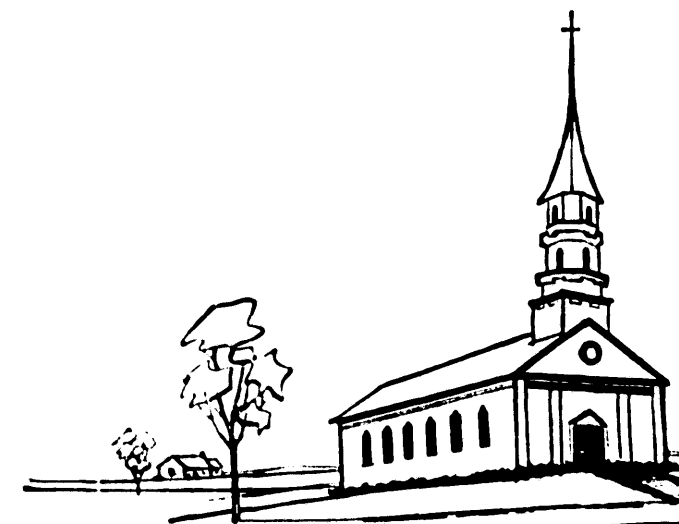

She went up and up. "Again, Daddy, again," until from her great height she looked down on a strangely distorted scene. Daddy was different from the top. Mommy was little and far away. Even the familiar old tree had hidden its friendly trunk and she caught her breath with a thrill of the unknown. I saw her expression change and suddenly there was a cry tinged with fear, "Don't Daddy!"

I dropped back while the swing slowed down. She tumbled out of the swing into my arms and I realized that there was a vast and unfamiliar world ahead for my child, with many distorted themes. I looked across the house tops to a church spire and thanked God for a foundation of faith... to guide her through the uncertainties ahead.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.
